Alessia Mazzola

Alessia is a real bundle of energy. Even as a small child, she kept everyone on their toes — always, everywhere, she had to talk, talk, talk — and not much has changed since. The piano has been her companion for fifteen years now, and when she wants to let her emotions run free, she hits the keys with conviction. She especially loves playing pieces by Ludovico Einaudi, when she isn't accompanying her own singing at the piano. From her Sicilian grandfather she inherited her temperament and her freckles, and she can never get enough of the sun and the sea. She is intensely curious and always wants to understand things fully. That's what fascinates her most about acting — getting to know a role inside out and finding out who really lives behind it, how the character thinks, tastes and feels. She believes firmly in the power of the universe and occasionally pulls an oracle card to give her strength on her path. In her dreams, she can always fly — and if she could have a superpower, that would definitely be it.
